Make it a Weekend in Johnson City, Tx

Girls' Weekend Lights Spectacular Edition

Friday: Settle In

Find a cozy corner for everyone at a local short-term rental or at The Tulip, a new bed and breakfast with plenty of room for a group of friends.

Head to The Local Bull to grab a few provisions, or to Vinovium for a glass of wine and a plate full of hazelnut beignets. If you're still eager to be out on the town, you can swing by Nice N Easy for a round of cocktails and enjoy the lights en route.

Saturday: Sipping and Shopping

Spend your Saturday exploring local wineries. There are several Texas Vintners Cup winners in the region where you can enjoy tastings. The whole day could be spent between wineries enjoying tastings and great weather.

Pecan Street Brewery is a great option for a hearty dinner and plenty of shareable apps (we love the spinach artichoke dip). Make sure to make a reservation since it's Lights season. Then, off to the lights where you can get plenty of group photos to commemorate your holiday weekend.

You just might wrap up your night at Tottie's, where there just might be karaoke or live music for your girls to enjoy.

Sunday: Wrapping Up with Shopping

Start Saturday morning by fueling up with a local coffee, then plan your day around shopping for holiday treats and gifts. Some local favorites include Le Chocolat for artisan chocolates, Grace and Gratitude for holistic shopping, Camp Bubba for carefully curated antiques, June Bloom Lavender for lavender-themed merchandise, and Farmhouse Vineyards for fun and quirky gifts.
